Chess Boxing

Chess boxing is a funny sport that combines two types of activities - chess and boxing!

Competitors fight alternating rounds of the two games and a victory in either chess or boxing totals up towards winning the contest. It normally consists of eleven rounds, six rounds of chess and five rounds of boxing. A funny weird game combination indeed!!

Chess boxing was invented by French comic book artist Enki Bilal and adapted by Dutch performance artist Iepe Rubingh as an art performance and has subsequently grown into a competitive sport.

It is popular in Germany, the United Kingdom, India and Russia.

Toe Wrestling

Toe wrestling is a sport involving two opponents who lock their feet together and try to pin each other's foot down with no time limit like similar to arm wrestling.

Toe wrestling was invented on 1974 by 4 drinkers at Ye Olde Royal Oak Inn in Wetton, Staffordshire.

In 2018, Alan Nash and Ben Woodroffe brought the rights to Toe Wrestling. The events normally take place in Pakistan, India and China.

Many people have requested for Toe wrestling to be added in the Olympic Games. Nasty Nash claims to have the strongest toe in the world. He is 59 years old and has broken 15 world records.
